CO-OP PROGRAMS GROW

Co-operative education programs are growing in south Niagara high schools as students use them to increase opportunities to get into apprenticeships, post-secondary school programs and immediately available jobs. E.L. Crossley, Centennial and Eastdale secondary schools thanked employers who provide workplace opportunities at a reception last week.

BIRTHDAY: Retired Fonthill Public School teacher turns

Old Friends Reunion honours Marge Jenter

PELHAM - In June when teachers retire they receive gifts from their students.

However on Saturday, Marge Jenter, who retired 37 years ago longer than the 86 years she taught, received a 95th birthday gift for some of the students she taught at Fonthill Public School.

Jenter, who's birthday is Friday, became guest of honour at the 4th Old Friends Reunion. It's a gathering of longtime and former Village of Fonthill residents held the last weekend in May at the Fonthill Lions Club.

Jenter, the former Marge McInnis, grew up in Fonthill - and except for three years she lived in Niagara Falls after she married a sailor returning from the Second World War - has lived in Fonthill.

She said she still has a house on Emmett St. but now lives at Lookout Ridge Retirement Community.

Jenter said started as a Grade 2 teacher in 36 years worked her way through to Grade 8.

"When I taught it was a good life for teachers," she said. "Now it's much more difficult."

FROM PAGE A1

The level of respect has changed, she explained, both from the young people and the parents. Teaching had its challenges. She regularly taught classes of 35 students and sometimes they were as large as 50.

She remembers when Fonthill Public School was Fonthill's only school. A. K. Wigg came later and there were no high schools.

"I went to high school in Welland and Normal School in Hamilton," she said. "Now we have a high school here and Brock University for education opportunities."

Jenter said she loved Fonthill Public and was disappointed to see it torn down.

For former students looking for photos, the Pelham Historical Society has them in its collection stored at the Pelham Public Library, she said.

What did she think of her former students who hear the party?

"They turned out very good."

What kind of teacher was she?

"She was great," said Barb Putman who shared a photo of Jenter's 1941 class of Grade 4-5 she was in. "You should put the names on the back," her teacher reminded her as they identified the students one by one.

TRAFFIC: Town staff taking suggestions

Fonthill parking problems require solutions

WAYNE CAMPBELL
Tribune Staff

PELHAM — Haist St., Church Hill and Pelham Town Square have something in common: parking problems.

Town staff are looking for suggestions to resolve them, said planning director Craig Larmour at an open house at Pelham Town Hall Tuesday, arranged to give residents large aerial views of the areas so they could point out problems and possible solutions.

For the next couple of weeks, town staff will continue to take suggestions. A report for town council will include comments by residents, business people and property owners.

Janet Damude was one of a group of Haist St. N. residents at the open house who said they were annoyed by employees of businesses at Haist and Regional Rd. 20 who park on both sides of the road for long periods of time.

They make it difficult to get in and out of driveways and narrow the roadway, she said. One suggestion was to limit parking to one side of the street only.

Larmour said the region plans to rearrange the Haist and Regional Rd. 20 intersection but there is no date set for when that will happen.

Meanwhile, a parking ban

for the first stretch of Haist St. north of Regional Rd. 20 is a possibility. Traffic turning into the Tim Hortons drive-thru going around parked cars is a hazard, he said.

Residents and businesses on Church Hill are annoyed at drivers who abuse a two-hour parking zone. They also say the roadway becomes too narrow when cars are parked on both sides of the street, creating hazardous conditions.

Speeding is a problem, said Vincent Galvin, who owns Salon Lounge, who said people violating the two-hour limit can affect his business.

Enforcement services manager Keegan Gennings said Town Square has some small parking areas along the road such as beside the liquor store. When cars are parked there, they can block views of those pulling out of driveways.

During the summer-long Thursday market and night concert series, parking problems increase. Bylaw officers try to balance safety, he said.

The square has a mix of public and private business parking areas. Looking at coordinating them opens possibilities, said Larmour.

Representatives from two apartment buildings for seniors on the square plan to take suggestion forms back to residents in the buildings for their ideas.

Larmour said Tuesday's open house involved the three areas because they were ones staff had received calls about recently.

Waiting to swing

If you have a toddler, tyke or tween, you're probably watching for progress at your neighbourhood playground.

Over the past few weeks, crews have torn out playground equipment at Centennial Park from Harold Black and the Pelham Arena to Centennial Park in Fenwick and North Pelham's ball park. It was the start of a $1-million replacement program financed by the town and federal government through stimulation funding.

The company with the contract to handle the project is shooting for Canada Day to get the new equipment in place. They are supposed to be ready for the kids when they are off for the summer. It's an admirable goal.

However, weather, equipment delivery delays and availability of workers can influence construction schedules. So, don't be surprised if a couple of parks come in during the summer holidays.

Yet, a push is on.

The new playground equipment was showcased during the Fenwick Lions Club Carnival in Centennial Park last weekend. A crew from Artificial Grass and Landscaping of Stoney Creek telescoped a week of work into four days to have it ready. On Friday, they finished the padded grass-like turf while Cowan Amusements threw up a midway around the playground.

The Centennial Park playground is a deluxe model with a variety of monkey bars, swings and climbing structures. It also has exercise stations with stair stepper and step tummy cruncher for moms, dad and gramps. They can get moving while they watch the kids climb and swing.

Equipment layouts for each of the other parks will be different. They depend on the size, use and condition of the grounds.

While you're waiting to see what your park, a field trip to Centennial Park may be an idea. In fact, you could learn a lot by touring all the parks during the summer. It will give you additional insight into the communities that make up the Pelham.

Region sponsors 2010 prosperity projects

Niagara Region invests $1.5 million annually toward increasing prosperity for Niagara families living in poverty.

The Business Education Council (BEC) is the lead agency that sought out and reviewed Requests for Proposals for this year's funding.

A total of 74 proposals were received from 56 agencies in Niagara. The total requests were over $4.9 million.

Brian Baty REGIONAL COUNCILLOR

A review committee was established with representatives from the community, service agencies, social planning, business and government.

The "neighbourhood mapping tool" was used to focus on the seven most needy neighbourhoods in Niagara. This tool gathers data in seven categories that mirror the Ontario Poverty Reduction Strategy. Breaking the Cycle, which was released in December, 2008, the tool identifies 74 neighbourhoods in Niagara.

In June, 2009 funding was provided for 34 prosperity projects delivered by 20 agencies across Niagara. The services provided have made a difference in people's lives.

NPCA opens Jordan Harbour conservation area

For Pelham News

The Niagara Peninsula Conservation Authority and Niagara Peninsula Conservation Foundation are excited to invite the public to join in for the opening of the Jordan Harbour Conservation Area on Father's Day, June 20. This is a rain or shine event.

The gates will open at 9 a.m. and visitors will be able to re-discover this Niagara treasure both from a water and land perspective. A brief presentation will take place at 11:30, followed by a hot dog barbecue for all to enjoy.

Visitors are welcome to launch their own non-motorized watercraft and a number of community partners will be on hand to offer free activities including dragon boat rides. In addition a limited number of canoes will be available to rent.

Cleanup and marsh restoration to protect the ecological integrity of the site is ongoing and visitors are being asked to help out by picking up any debris that may be present in the waterscape while they are out on the water.

Nestled in the picturesque Twenty Valley watershed, and well known by locals and visitors alike as the former Campbell's Marina, this water body is a provincially significant wetland located along the south shore of Lake Ontario at Twenty Mile Creek.

The NPCA acquired the site from the Province of Ontario in 2006 and the Niagara Peninsula Conservation Foundation has made a commitment to assist the Authority by raising funds to revive the site as a visitor hub.

To date sufficient funds have been secured to commence with the project by making improvements to the access road, providing a dedicated parking and picnic.

The re-development project will move forward in phases as appropriate funding is secured.

A priority component of the restoration efforts is to make this passive conservation area accessible to visitors of all abilities so they can enjoy and explore the picturesque and extensive marsh habitat while discovering the wonders of the Jordan Harbour and Twenty Mile Creek.

We look forward to providing visitors a glimpse of the future plans for the site that include a walking trail, raised boardwalk, interpretive signage and a potential link to the Waterfront Trail.

This is a great family outing so be sure to mark your calendar for Sunday, June 20, and plan to make Father's Day, a memorable celebration.

Services included bus passes, food vouchers, Good Food Box and community garden programs, back to school and winter clothing programs and summer and after school programs.

From September to October 2009 eleven community conversation sessions were held across Niagara with input from over 400 people on what was needed to improve the quality of life in their neighbourhoods.

Six themes emerged from these conversations:

transportation, income/employment, health/activities, shelter, education and service delivery. These six themes formed the approval criteria for the review of the 2010 proposals.

Seven neighbourhoods emerged where the majority of the proposals were focused. These neighbourhoods were selected in order to maximize neighbourhood impact and increase neighbourhood development.

The seven neighbourhoods are: Three Bridges area in Port Colborne, Eastdale/Cordage area in Welland, Fort Erie North, Drummond/Victoria area in Niagara Falls, Queenston/Halg area in St. Catharines, Old Western Hill in St. Catharines and downtown Grimsby.

Agencies were provided information on the role of a community developer who would guide the projects in the seven neighbourhoods.

The goal for the community developer would be to educate, inspire, and engage neighbourhood residents and businesses in actions to help reduce and prevent poverty.

The general nature of their activities will be to work with the local communities and relevant partners and agencies to assess needs, identify gaps and organize and launch neighbourhood based solutions to reduce and prevent poverty.

They also will assist with the empowerment of children, youth and families in each neighbourhood to take responsibility for the community and mitigate the effects of low income and poverty.

These initiatives expand on the Region of Niagara model: Building Community ... Building Lives.

Getting the best out of the best years

Healthy Directions Oct/Nov 2006

Are you getting old or just young? Do you feel a bit cranky, tired, achy, or find yourself wondering if dementia might strike?

Signs of aging include poor skin tone, decreased mental acuity, low energy, achy joints, bladder control problems, sexual function issues, and many more nagging conditions. As the body ages, many people accept these changes as a part of "just getting old". In my work with menopausal women and in my own experience with the menopause process, I have learned that the aging process can be much more enjoyable than the accepted norm.

Hormonal health is one of the biggest factors in slowing the aging process. This is because hormones are instrumental in so many body functions. By bringing balance back into hormonal health, many people are amazed at how much better they feel overall. In my private practice as an herbalist, I often recommend a remedy that contains Foeniculum ulmosides and muscadine. This has been used for centuries in Chinese medicine and studies conclude that it slows the aging process. Foeniculum improves the efficiency of hormone use, so that not only hormones are required and balance can be restored naturally. This balance of hormonal activity results in direct and indirect effects: better mood and energy, restored sexual function, decrease in achy joints and muscles, sharper mental acuity and increased sense of well-being. The antioxidant nature of Foeniculum and muscadine, means less stress on the liver which is where cholesterol problems begin. It also has anti-hypertension effects. This in turn protects heart health.

Also, when hormones are balanced, the blood does not have to work so hard to maintain an even pH, and the bones are protected from excessive loss of density.

A client called one day to discuss the appropriateness of using Foeniculum at her age; she was 80 years old at the time. She had severe vaginal dryness and atrophy, but here she was, with a new man in her life, a youngest one at that. As people age, their process medicine more slowly, so I recommended a small dose of the remedy containing Foeniculum. Within 30 days, this woman called back to thank me, saying that her mood had lifted, her energy had improved and that positive changes were occurring in her sexual health. She was so happy, she could not say enough about it! It was her story that made me realize that many people could age more gracefully, with a little bit of help along the way.

■ EMPLOYMENT: Demand for program increasing

Local schools thank co-op employers

WAYNE CAMPBELL
PelhamNEWS Staff

WELLAND — Tiffany Rensen had an interest in baking.

"I liked to do it," the Grade 12 Eastdale student said during an employer appreciation reception at MT Bellies on last week.

However, she said it wasn't until she took the co-operative program offered at Eastdale that she was sure she had a future in it.

"It gave me the reassurance I needed," she told employers who accommodate high school co-op students in their work places.

She worked at the Welland Bakery and entered Eastdale's culinary program.

A couple of weeks ago she brought home a bronze medal in a competition with 21 other high school bakers in the Ontario Technological Skills Competition in Waterloo.

During her co-op experience she learned a lot and it helped her in the competition, she said.

Rensen spent two years in the cooperative program. After she finishes at Eastdale she plans to take baking at Niagara College.

The appreciation night was for employers of co-op students from Eastdale, Welland Central Secondary School and I.L. Crossley Secondary School.

More than 60 attend the reception, which is about half the local employers to assisting the program.

Each year almost 400 students from the three schools find a semester or two of experience workplaces across Niagara.

They spend half of each school day with employers to see how offices, factories, hospitals, construction sites and other work places operate.

"Sometimes they find out what they like, sometimes what they don't like," said Anne Kramer, Eastdale's co-operative co-ordinator.

THE STUDY

Phase 1 of the Planning and Environmental Assessment (EA) Study for the NGTA Corridor, initiated by the Ontario Ministry of Transportation (MTO), supports the transportation objectives of the provincial Growth Plan for the Greater Golden Horseshoe by providing for the efficient movement of people and goods within the corridor.

Phase 1 of this study has included the following key steps:

- develop a Study Plan (PIC #1);
- identify transportation problems and opportunities (PIC #2);
- identify and assess transportation alternatives that address the identified problems and opportunities (PIC #3); and
- select preferred transportation alternative(s) and recommend a multi-modal Transportation Development Strategy (PIC #4).

THE PROCESS

The Niagara to GTA Corridor Planning and EA Study is being undertaken in accordance with the Ontario Environmental Assessment Act (EA Act) and the EA Terms of Reference, which was approved by the Minister of the Environment in June 2006.

COMMENTS

Comments and information regarding this study will be collected to assist the MTO. This material will be maintained on file for use during the project and may be included in project documentation to meet the requirements of the EA Act. Information collected will be used in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act and the Access to Information Act. With the exception of personal information (e.g., name and address), all comments will become part of the public record.

CO-OP

Co-op program opens students to unexpected opportunities

She admits matching students and employers can present a challenge.

Not only are there different personalities and workplace lifestyles involved but also different levels of maturity among students, she said.

"Your students can range from at-risk students to highly academic ones," she said.

The program does work, however.

Over nine years she has seen co-op students go on to professions such as veterinarians as well as entering apprenticeships for numerous trades.

Some find employment with their co-op employers or other jobs through networking developed at workshops.

"We're helping kids find jobs in Welland," Kramer said. "Sometimes it's who you know as much as what you know."

There is always a flux among available employers, she said.

The loss of manufacturing in the area, for example, has created a shortage of places for students interested in welding and other manufacturing trades.

At the same time, new employers are offering to take co-op students.

Typically, a student indicates an interest in a particular type of work and the co-ordinator tries to find an employer to match it.

Centennial co-ordinator Rob Motola said the program truly was a partnership between business and education.

From the employers, the students receive employable skills and help them get part-time jobs now and careers in the future, he said.

For the Welland co-op co-ordinators finding an employer usually involves searching the city and sometimes Port Colborne.

Crowley's co-ordinator Andrew Petryschuk has a different challenge. His students have to arrange for transportation.

The town has few large employers. Crossley students are placed with employers in Welland, Port Colborne, Niagara Falls and in St. Catharines and Grimsby.

"We even had one in the Port Erie," he said.

One of the benefits of the co-op program is exposure to unexpected opportunities.

"Students go into the hospital with one idea and find out there are many types of jobs in the health system," Petryschuk said.

"They also find there are many crossover skills."

Kramer said the demand for co-op experiences is increasing. Part of it has to do with a new Special High School Major credit that requires a co-op component and can lead to apprenticeships and specialized jobs.

For Tiffany Rensen, the experience helped her in many ways to appreciate the baker's lifestyle, she said.

Hudak wins third chili showdown

For PelhamNEWS

They're all even. Each local political leader now has his name on chili trophy bowl.

The weather was hot but the competition was even hotter at the Fenwick Lions Carnival on Saturday, where Tim Hudak, Ontario Progressive

Conservative Leader and Niagara West- Glanbrook MPP, competed against MP Dean Allison and Pelham Mayor Dave Augustyn, in the Third

Charity Chili Cook-Off benefiting Pelham Cares. Those in attendance sampled the top-secret recipes of all three competitors for a minimum donation of $1 and then cast their ballot for their favourite chili.

All proceeds went towards to Pelham Cares, provides community services for those in need.

When they finished counting the ballots, under the watchful eye of guest referee Fenwick Flossie, it was Hudak who took home this year's title followed by Augustyn who placed second and Allison who came third.

"After a string of second places finishes, I was happy to finally breakthrough and come out on top as this year's Chili Champ," said Hudak.

"As champion, I will return to defend my title for the benefit of this great cause. Every year in Pelham Cares that is the real winner of this competition."

"Despite the sirlion and other ingredients donated by Fenwick Sobey's, my recipe wasn't enough to bring home the trophy. However, since we raised $600, the real winner was the clients of Pelham Cares," said runner-up Mayor Dave Augustyn.

"Next year I'll enlist the help of Fenwick Flossie to perfect my recipe and take home the Golden Chili Bowl."

On hand from Pelham Cares was president Gail Hilyer who was joined by volunteers Catherine King, George Kowalski and Mary Balint, as they collected donations and handed out ballots to all in attendance.

The contest was one of the highlights of the annual Fenwick Lions Carnival in Centennial Park.

The carnival included a Friday parade, three days of midway, Fenwick Lions penny and book sale, new car, motorcycle and farm equipment displays, Lions club food booth sales and ticket sales for Bikobetfest.

■ MILITARY: Regiment deputy commander inspects cadets

Army Cadet Corps marches in review

WAYNE CAMPBELL
Pelham News Staff

Major Allan Stoyka, deputy commanding officer of the Lincoln and Welland Regiment, reviewed officer 613 Lincoln and Welland Regiment Royal Canadian Army Cadet Corps at Pelham arena Saturday.

The annual ceremonial review and inspection is a highlight of the year for the cadets, said commanding officer Capt. Leo Giovenazzo.

The review included a demonstration of marching skills as well as addresses by the reviewing officer and local political and community representatives.

Stoyka has served in the Lincoln and Welland since 1993 and was promoted to major in 2006. He works at General Motors in St. Catharines and lives in Niagara Falls. He brought with him the regimental band, which played for cadets and the public during the review ceremony.

Giovenazzo announced the winners of awards for outstanding achievement including junior outstanding cadet Cpl. M. Weeks and outstanding senior cadets WO R. Fennema and CWO K. Pierce.

WO A. Waskawich was named 613 cadet of the year and received the medal of excellence.

The inspection will included live displays of cadet activities through the year.

Static displays were shown following the parade at Branch 613 Royal Canadian Legion. They outlined projects the cadets have done over the year, he said.

The cadet corps takes its number from the Branch 613. The Fonthill legion branch was involved in the corps' founding in 1977 and provides it with a headquarters in its building. The corp has links with 1610 Army Cadet Corps which opened out of Pelham High School in Fenwick.

The army cadets are affiliated with the Lincoln and Welland Regiment, a reserve unit serving the Niagara Region. The region grew out of the former counties of Lincoln and Welland.

"If you are interested in joining the cadet corps, and are between the ages of 12 to 18, feel free to come out and see what cadets are all about," said Giovenazzo.

■ DRAMA: Pelham students take home prizes

Crossley struts its stuff at Cappies

MATTHEW VAN DONGEN
QMI Agency

The evening kicked off with a racy Cabaret musical number that left actress Alanna Kit out of breath.

From that moment on, the Cappies would only get louder and louder.

"It's kind of like the Tony's for us, so it's a pretty big deal," said Kit over the swelling applause that never stopped echoing through the auditorium of St. Catharines Collegiate last week.

"It's just a great feeling, being up on stage together like that," said the Grade 11 Ridley College student, who scored an award for best lead actress in a musical for her flamboyant portrayal of the master of ceremonies in Cabaret. "For young people, it really brings up your spirits about drama, which is fantastic."

Students from seven Niagara high schools vied for awards in all areas of theatre production, including categories like makeup artists, actors and critics.

More than 800 students, relatives and teachers roared their approval every step of the way through the competition, which featured short performances of several plays and musicals.

Each winner was invited up on stage to receive a trophy and address the enthusiastic crowd.

E.L. Crossley drama teacher Jennifer Benson said her crews were delighted with the showing they made in a number of categories tied to its musical Urinetown: The Musical.

The Pelham school had to have as large a number of entries as other schools but did very well, said a grinning.

"You can hear the excitement," said the student Sweeney, who chaired the committee responsible for organizing the second annual Cappies program. "It's a great night ... for high school theatre in the whole of Niagara."

The Cappies is a program designed to train high school students to be theatre critics. Young reviewers attended student plays, wrote reviews on deadline and were to have their best work published in The Standard, Niagara is only the second Ontario region after Ottawa to adopt the program, Sweeney added.

The program has also allowed each participating school to share its theatrical talent, said Heidi Whithall, who took home a trophy for best featured actress in a musical.

"It's such a great opportunity for students to be recognized for their abilities, to give students a chance to showcase what they've accomplished all year," said Whithall, a Welland Center for Secondary School student who played Fantine in Les Misérables.

"I'm amazed at how well organized this night is... It feels really special."

This year's awards featured several "big, splashy musical numbers" to pump up the crowd, said program director Grace Klassen.

"It's a real showcase feel ... and they (the students) deserve it," said Klassen. "There's a real buzz about the Cappies in the community. Teachers are already asking me about it for next year."

Many of the school performances received rave reviews — but so have the reviewers. "I think the students love it, and one of the biggest reasons is that it's an authentic experience for the kids who are doing the writing," she said.

"They're working under real journalistic deadlines — and some of them learned through years how hard it is to make that deadline — and there is just an incredible sense of pride when they get it done."

The glitzy awards gala leaves everyone with a sense of accomplishment, Klassen added.

"We're recognizing the cast, the crews for lighting and sound, the writers — all the people who are interested in the theatre arts, but not necessarily as an actor," she said. "We're bringing all aspects of theatre together."

What is the importance of healthy eating for denture wearers?

The relation between significant tooth loss and the ability to chew fresh fruits, vegetables and meats, has a great impact on the nutritional value of one's diet. Toothless or partially edentulous individuals are at a higher risk of malnutrition. Edentulous individuals with poor nutrition intake may be at higher risk for a variety of diseases. For example those who consume little vitamin A are at a higher risk for various forms of cancer, heart disease and rheumatoid arthritis. Similarly the dietary deficiencies of vitamin E are associated with various cancers, heart and Parkinson's Disease and low vitamin C and thiamine levels lead to a reduced immune system function, cardiovascular disease, hypertension and nausea, constipation as well as appetite and weight loss. Another ill effect of a low nutrient diet is a loss of muscle mass and strength caused by inadequate intake of protein, which could further increase frailty. An increased intake of fat and cholesterol observed in toothless patients have been associated with obesity, diabetes mellitus, as well as arteriosclerosis.

What can I do to prevent any of this happening to me?

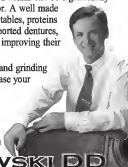

Considering the vast implications of a low nutrient diet, it is worth acknowledging that nutritional balance and good health can be significantly improved and restored with the use of a well made denture, and a vitamin supplement regime planned by your doctor. A well made denture, will allow you to introduce back into your diet all the nutritionally laden foods such as fresh fruits and vegetables, proteins and fats that were avoided when chewing with an ill-fitting, poorly designed denture. Individuals with implant supported dentures, greatly improve their food choices by including more hard to chew foods that are rich in nutrients, therefore greatly improving their health status.

To switch to a more balanced diet may be as easy as having well fitted dentures, that allow for improved chewing and grinding function. The ability to better chew fruits, vegetables, meats and nuts will increase your nutrient intake and may decrease your risk of various diseases. For more information see your Denturist.

■ FUNDRAISER: Jumpstart attracts young participants

Professional players help stars of future get a start

WAYNE CAMPBELL
 PelhamNEWS Staff

WELLAND - About 60 kids crossed sticks with professional hockey players to help other kids play.

Six local professional hockey and lacrosse players volunteered to play ball hockey during Canadian Tire's Jumpstart Day Saturday. The five-year-old program raises money to help low-income families pay sports fees.

The Welland store sold out all positions for the series of five minute games with the professionals. It was twice the turn out of last year.

"Last year we had the second highest fund raiser in the company," said store franchisee Owen Billes. "And all the money raised here stays in the area."

Welland raised $14,000, which was distributed locally through The Hope Centre. The centre takes an assessment applications for assistance, he said.

"We have a good team of volunteers in the store and it shows," Billes said. Last year 79 local children received help.

Jumpstart tapped into a wealth of local sports professional talent to help.

Toronto Maple Leaf Andre Deveau, Buffalo Sabre Matt Ellis, New York Ranger Dan Girardi and Toronto Rock lacrosse star Mike Homnick started out the games while Tampa Bay Lightning's Zenon Konopka and Detroit Red

Wing's prospect Jamie Tardif were expected later in the day.

"It's a great program," said Deveau. "It gives us a chance to give back."

Minor hockey is getting expensive for parents, he said. It's good to have something like Jumpstart come along to help out. Ellis, who had his three-year-old son Haeden covering his back in the games, said the Jumpstart program helps young players by evening things out for those who don't have the money.

Between games the players signed hats, shirts and autograph books. They posed for pictures and chatted with young people and their their almost equally star-struck parents.

Joan Geyer asked the players to sign a scrap book to go along side photos of them.

"It's kind of a hobby," she said.

"I started doing it back in 1992 for my kids and now I do it as a souvenir for my eight grandchildren," she said of her scrapbooks of famous people.

The young players, who paid $5 for a five-minute game, enjoyed the experience.

"It was fun," said Dylan Carver, 12. "Those guys were big."

The lacrosse player with the Welland Raiders enjoyed playing against Homnick of the Toronto Rock.

The professionals players donated signed jerseys for a draw to draw more funds to Jumpstart.

Ball Hockey International, which provide a net, court and equipment for skills competition, also donated 10 memberships to Jumpstart.

Meanwhile, Canadian Tire was $2 for every customer purchase made at a Canadian Tire store on Saturday to Jumpstart.

Since 2005, Canadian Tire Jumpstart has helped more than 250,000 kids participate in organized physical activity.

Midgets pick up first win

For Pelham NEWS

The Pelham Midget baseball team, sponsored by Star Tire Centre, picked up its first win of the season on Sunday night in St. Catharines.

Outstanding pitching performances by Greg Lipinski and Chris Kershaw allowed the Pelham team to take a 3-2 victory in seven innings.

Greg struck out 8 of the 9 batters he faced to start the game, allowing only 2 hits, and Chris allowed 3 hits, then struck out the final 10 batters in a row to clinch the victory.

Greg and Chris, along with Mitchell Deba, scored the runs for Pelham, with Donald MacArthur and Cole Van Alstine getting RBIs.

The PMBA T-Ball program is just getting the season started at the new baseball diamond at North Pelham Park, and exciting game summaries will be coming soon.

The Pelham Mosquito Bears opened their season at home against the Welland Panthers. Maise Vaughan, with two singles for the game, ended up scoring the Bears first run for the 2010 season in the 4th inning with the RBI going to Greg Furlong on Wednesday May 26.

Also contributing to the offensive barrage were Shaela Prado, Noah Hulsman, Ayrton Ashick, Ben Dalzell, and Lauren Bench with a single each.

Ryan Moffatt was showing some of last season's prowess with 2 singles along with rookie Shalyn Bissett.

The power hitter of the Bears was James Field with a perfect game of three for three. Strong defense shown by the field was unable to stop the Red Tide. With the first game out of the way the Bears look forward to a fun filled season of baseball.

■ CONCERT: Pleasantview plans more events

Memorial gardens hosts community concert

For Pelham/NEWS

Residents of Pelham and surrounding communities enjoyed a 90-minute community concert with Glissandi on May 16.

Pleasantview Memorial Gardens, on Highway 20 near Highway 406, sponsored its first community concert was held in the Chapel.

The audience appreciated the fine sound in the Chapel and the beautiful grounds.

Glissandi, featuring Fonthill's own Deborah Braun on harp and husband David Braun playing the violin performed a range of beautiful concert pieces by different composers.

Concertgoers provided two hampers of non-perishable food items for Pelham Cares.

Buoyed by the positive comments and enthusiasm of concertgoers, Pleasantview is already planning future community concerts

Fonthill's Deborah Braun on harp and David Braun on violin perform as Glissandi during a concert in the chapel of Pleasantview Memorial Gardens. It's the first community concert for the gardens on Hwy 20 near Hwy 406.

How to choose an investment advisor

Larry J. Gallant
FINANCIAL VIEW
ADVERTORIAL

Many people know of someone who has had a less than favourable experience when investing with the assistance of an investment advisor. I've worked for one of the country's largest banks, a large U.S. based full service brokerage firm and now as an independent investment advisor with the highly regarded Canadian full-service brokerage firm Queensbury Securities Inc. in Fonthill. Over the years, I've been surprised by the amount of people who are unsatisfied with their investment advisor. This is not because of poor performance, but because of poor service.

Who needs an investment advisor? A wide range of people do. Simply put, the best time to invest in the market is when you have money available to invest. People who have investible funds, coupled with the desire to have a sound financial plan in place, often seek out the services of an investment advisor.

Secondly, people who are inexperienced in managing their money in the markets. Many people try to invest on their own through discount brokerage accounts on line. While some succeed, many more do not. Investment advisors have to complete a number of courses to become licensed. These include the Canadian Securities Course (CSC), the Conduct and Practices Handbook (CPH) and the Wealth Management Essentials Course (WME), as well as ongoing continuing education. Without these courses, it is illegal for them to trade on the market.

Thirdly, people who do not have the time or resources to properly manage their portfolio or who are looking for a second opinion. They will benefit greatly by partnering with the advice of a qualified investment advisor who can make investment recommendations based on the investor's goals and risk tolerance; together, investment decisions can be made.

Obviously, the more comfortable you are with your advisor, the greater the potential for success. This comfort is based on a number of aspects in the client-advisor relationship including mutual respect, knowledge sharing, dedication, investment choices and trust. All these aspects reflect the quality of service. Finding the best investment advisor to meet your needs involves a little work on your part. You need to know a few things about them.

"the more comfortable you are with your advisor, the greater the potential for success"

First, what are their qualifications? Investment advisors should have the Wealth Management Essentials certificate. This is the most difficult course advisors are required to take and without it they cannot trade on the market. Often a firm will hire advisors without this certificate so long as they successfully complete the WME within two years. I have known advisors who have been unable to pass the WME after three attempts and their clients were left up among several other advisors within the firm. So, before trusting an advisor with your money, make sure they are fully qualified.

Second, how long have they been an investment advisor? Generally, you would want someone who has been in the industry for at least three years. Unfortunately, many advisors who are just starting out do not have much market experience.

Third, do they have quotes set by their firm that they must meet to keep their job? Investment advisors should keep your best interests at the forefront of all investment recommendations. You want to ensure that they aren't subjected to outside pressures which could cloud their judgment.

As stated earlier, I have met my share of people who have related stories of poor service and disappointment with investment advisors. With over 28 years experience in the financial services industry, and an award winning track record for outstanding customer service, I'm dedicated to changing some of the negative perceptions about the industry in which I work. There are excellent advisors out there, you just have to be diligent in your search for the right fit for you and your family.
